Description/content The Department of Economics at the University of Konstanz offers a two-year Master's programme in economics. The English-taught study programme is on a small scale, and you will benefit from close contact with your professors. The aim of the programme is to provide you with a firm background in the modern scientific methods of economics and the ability to apply these methods to economic problems. You will have the opportunity to specialise in the following areas:

- Econometrics and Applied Economics
- International Financial Economics
- Macroeconomics and International Economics
- Microeconomics and Decision-Making
- Public Economics

Course Details

Course organisation

Before you start: We offer two preparatory courses in October before the start of your first semester. We highly recommend our prep courses if you want to refresh your knowledge in quantitative methods and advanced econometrics.

In your first semester, you will take three compulsory courses: Advanced Econometrics, Advanced Macroeconomics I, and Advanced Microeconomics I.

In the second and third semesters, you may choose courses according to your desired specialisation, interest, and career aspirations. You can choose courses and one seminar per semester from your specialisation area:

- Econometrics and Applied Economics
- International Financial Economics
- Macroeconomics and International Economics
- Microeconomics and Decision-Making
- Public Economics

The fourth semester is dedicated to your Master's thesis.

Our department offers five exciting double degree options. Choosing a double degree option means that you will study one year in Konstanz and one year abroad at one of our partner departments – and finish your studies with two Master's degrees. Our double degree partner universities are:

- University of Essex, UK
- University of Nottingham, UK
- Università degli Studi di Roma "Tor Vergata", Italy
- University of Florence, Italy
- Aix Marseille School of Economics, France

Language requirements For applicants whose mother tongue is not English, proof of English proficiency via one of the following tests must be provided:

- Cambridge Certificate of Proficiency (minimum grade C)
- IELTS (minimum band 6.5)
- TOEFL (minimum score: 580 points / paper-based test, 237 points / computer-based test, or 92 points / Internet-based test)

For more information, see how to apply.

Application deadline

Please check the application deadline here.

Submit application to*How to apply

Please apply via our online application portal ZEuS: online application form.

Services

Possibility of finding part-time employment

If you want to earn some extra cash while you study, you can easily get a student job. The university administration and many departments offer student assistant jobs (also with non-German requirement). Jobs are also posted online via the university website or on the notice boards in the entrance hall.

Accommodation

There are a number of possibilities for accommodation for students: in apartments, flat shares, or residence halls run by the university. Check out our website, where we provide an overview of the different options as well as general tips. You can also contact the team of our International Office for advice on housing.

Please note that it is important to begin your search for accommodation as early as possible since our city and surroundings are very popular not only with students but also with families and outdoor enthusiasts. Since both Switzerland and Lake Constance border Konstanz, the available living space is limited and not always inexpensive.

Career advisory service

The university's career service offers personalised advice and events on career orientation and how to apply for a job in Germany.

Support for international students and doctoral candidates

- Welcome event
- Buddy programme
- Tutors
- Cultural and linguistic preparation
- Specialist counselling

Qianhao Lu Student

The Master's programme provides a top education in Economics, which has given me a deep understanding of global capital markets by using the quantitative and qualitative methods I have learned. Lectures with small class sizes provide enormous opportunities to join the discussions with professors and other colleagues. The University of Konstanz is full of international students who helped me develop a global perspective on different cultures and establish a broad alumni social network.

Would you like to study at one of the best research universities in Germany? Then the University of Konstanz is the right place for you. We offer you excellent study conditions in a beautiful location between Lake Constance and the Alps. For us, excellence in studies and teaching also means cultivating close cooperation. We encourage our students to take part in discussions and get involved in research from the start.

Our university is currently home to some 11,000 students enrolled in around 120 different degree programmes in the fields of mathematics and natural sciences, humanities, politics, law, and economics. With students from more than 90 countries around the world, we are proud to call our university an international community.

The University of Konstanz is a campus-based university: you will get to know other students quickly, come into contact with other departments and feel at home right away. Our university has an open-door policy: professors are very accessible and happy to help you with any questions or issues you might have.

We will give you a very warm welcome and support you in every stage of your stay. We have an excellent supervision ratio and top advisory services. You will learn in small groups and work across disciplines. We promote innovative teaching methods and strategies such as transfer formats or virtual classrooms and support lecturers in further developing their teaching. Our Advanced Data and Information Literacy Track (ADILT) complements all study programmes by teaching the fundamentals of computer science and data processing methods, along with their legal foundations. Additionally, it provides reflection on their relevance for society.

In Konstanz, you will find optimal conditions for research, studying, and teaching.

The University of Konstanz has set the following five research priorities:

- Human | Data | Society
- Collective Behaviour
- Cultural Dynamics and Social Transformation
- Molecular Principles of Life
- Inequality and Conflict

We want to give you the best possible opportunities to develop personally and professionally. You will have many opportunities to put your own ideas into action – whether you conduct research or start a spin-off. The idea behind our "creative.together" concept as a University of Excellence is that close communication and a strong sense of community enhance the creative potential of our university members at all levels. We bring together our different backgrounds and disciplines to create something truly extraordinary. At the same time, you will enjoy an extraordinarily beautiful environment with a historical city, lake, and nearby mountains as well as excellent sports facilities.

University location

Konstanz is situated in south-west Germany in the federal state of Baden-Württemberg, and it shares its border with the Swiss town of Kreuzlingen. It is beautifully located on the shores of the Rhine River and Lake Constance, central Europe's second-largest lake, where the borders of Austria, Germany, and Switzerland converge. The lively university city, with about 86,000 inhabitants, among them more than 15,000 students, is the economic and cultural centre of the Lake Constance region. Take a stroll through the shopping mall and the historical centre, with its department stores and small specialist shops. Take a break in one of the many cafés, restaurants, ice cream parlours, pubs, and wine bars. Konstanz is not only a popular tourist destination but also an attractive business location (light industry, commerce, high technology). It is a very safe place to live, and it offers a high quality of life, with its excellent infrastructure and its diverse range of cultural and recreational facilities. Konstanz has a long and rich historical tradition. The first settlements were erected in Konstanz Bay in 2000 BC, and the city was given its name "Constantia" by the Romans in the fourth century AD. Konstanz has a well-preserved medieval town and numerous historical buildings from the Romanesque, Gothic, and Baroque periods.

Konstanz has the perfect location for all kinds of outdoor leisure activities. The region has an excellent network of routes for walking, cycling, and in-line skating tours. The beaches are a major attraction for relaxing in the sun and swimming in the lake or the Rhine. The lake offers various water sports, such as sailing, canoeing, and diving, and the nearby Alps provide year-round enjoyment for skiers, snowboarders, hikers, and climbers. Konstanz is the home of the oldest running theatre in Germany and of the famous Southwest German Philharmonic Orchestra. There are several museums, art galleries, and art centres offering a broad spectrum of events: art and documentary exhibitions and concerts in all genres of music. Konstanz is also an ideal starting point for excursions to many attractions in Germany, Switzerland, Austria, and Liechtenstein. On the city's doorstep are the famous gardens of Mainau Island and the Island of Reichenau, a UNESCO World Heritage Site. You can take boat trips to beautiful towns around the lake, such as Meersburg, Überlingen, and Lindau. The lakeside town of Friedrichshafen is the home of the Zeppelin, and the Austrian city of Bregenz is renowned for its summer festivals, featuring spectacular opera and musical performances on a floating stage in the lake. A boat trip along one of the most beautiful parts of the Rhine takes you to the magnificent Rhine Falls at the Swiss town of Schaffhausen. From Konstanz, you can easily reach major cities, such as Zurich, Basel, Strasbourg, Stuttgart, Munich, and Milan.
