Description/content	The interdisciplinary MA InterAmerican Studies / Estudios InterAmericanos focuses on social, cultural, historical, and political developments in the Americas both in their specifically national characteristics and in regard to processes of transnational integration. The programme is characterised by a broad interdisciplinary approach to Hemispheric area studies and includes the disciplines of literary, cultural, and media studies, linguistics, sociology, political science, and transnational history. The larger context of current research questions of transnationality, of interculturality, of globalisation, and of the world society is of central interest.

Course Details

Course organisation	The InterAmerican Studies / Estudios InterAmericanos Master's programme is structured according to basic and optional complementary modules. There are four basic modules which should be completed during the first two semesters, together with the individual electives module. The basic modules cover seminars on North and South American culture, literature, history and language. During the second year of the programme, students are to complete two optional complementary modules, choosing their major and specialising in literature and culture and/or linguistic and/or history and politics and/or social studies of the American continent. An additional graduation module consisting of the Master's thesis and a research colloquium is to be completed during the last semester of the programme. Basic modules: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. International elements	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • International guest lecturers • Projects with partners in Germany and abroad • Integrated/optional study abroad unit(s) • Specialist literature in other languages • Courses are led with foreign partners • Training in intercultural skills • International comparisons and thematic reference to the international context
Integrated/optional study abroad unit(s)	The InterAmerican Studies / Estudios InterAmericanos MA programme aims at educating experts in the fields of international, cultural, social and communication processes. Students have the opportunity to choose between the double degree option or going abroad for a semester on a student exchange to Latin America or the United States.

The structure of the double degree option is designed so that each generation of students will study the first two semesters at Bielefeld University, where they will acquire the basis of interdisciplinary studies. The remaining two semesters will be spent at Universidad de Guadalajara in Maestría de Literaturas Interamericanas, where they must write their thesis, which will be supervised by professors from both institutions.

This way, students are given the opportunity to apply the theoretical knowledge acquired during their studies in a concrete, cultural, social and political environment of the Americas, at the same time conducting the necessary field research.

The programme offers the possibility to choose specific complementary modules from the special research and educational offers of our partner universities. Most importantly, the exchange programmes offer students the possibility of a double supervision ("co-tutelle") for their Master's theses. Agreements have been established with the following universities:

- Universidad de Guadalajara (Mexico)
- Universidad Andina Simón Bolívar, Quito (Ecuador)
- Universidad de Antioquia, Medellín (Colombia)
- Pontificia Universidade Católica, Rio de Janeiro (Brazil)
- Universidad de Buenos Aires (Argentina)
- Universidad Católica, Lima (Peru)
- University of Kansas (USA)
- Texas International University (USA)
