Description/content	The "Teaching German as a Foreign Language" didactics seminar is an advanced training programme both for trained German teachers with teaching experience and for students of German studies who are about to complete their studies and would like to work as German teachers afterwards. As a participant, you will have the opportunity to update your knowledge of didactics and teaching methods in Germany and to brush up on your German language skills. You will also experience German culture, history and environment from different perspectives and exchange ideas on specialist topics with prospective German teachers from all over the world. A varied mix of lessons and other teaching activities awaits you: teaching excursions, classroom observations and lectures on textbooks, examination formats as well as other specialist topics. At the end of the seminar, you will receive a certificate.

I teach German at the state university in my hometown in Russia. The didactics seminar offered me the opportunity to refresh my knowledge and share experiences with other German teachers. One of the topics that I found the most interesting was the "adaptation of literary texts for classroom use". I will take a lot of enthusiasm as well as many new ideas home with me to use in my future work as a German teacher. I can totally recommend this fun seminar!

— FH Aachen University of Applied Sciences —

Over 15,000 students are currently studying at FH Aachen, which offers more than 100 Bachelor's and Master's degree courses in the fields of engineering, economics, and design. FH Aachen cooperates with many international partner universities and furthermore maintains relationships with a wide range of well-reputed companies in order to allow students to get in touch with possible professional fields.

University location

The European city of Aachen is located in western Germany and borders Belgium and the Netherlands. The French border is also not far away.

Apart from being an attractive location for academic institutions (four universities) and companies, Aachen also offers a wide range of sights; the picturesque Old Town and the Cathedral, the "Elisenbrunnen" with its hot springs, the old city gates, many charming buildings, and historic as well as modern museums make a stay in Aachen a unique European experience!
