

Table of Contents

Language course/short course	. 2
Machine Learning and Data Analytics • Ludwig-Maximilians-Universität München • München	. 2

Language course/short course

Machine Learning and Data Analytics

Ludwig-Maximilians-Universität München • München

Overview

Teaching language English English: B2, C1 Date(s) English: B2, C1 Date(s) Esplish: B2, C1 Less than 50% online Phase(s) of attendance in Germany (applies to the entire course) Instructor-led (Specific due dates for lectures/assignments/exams) Information on dates, prices and mode of study Enclass in Munich, 4-14 August Inclass in Munich, 4-14 August Enclass in Munich, 4-14 August Target group Bachelor's students and Master's students as well as young professionals and scientists with an interest in machine learning and data analytics techniques, thus enabling you to use them to your professional benefit. Adopting a user perspective, you will learn to automate simple but time-consuming tasks such as classification of analysts' conference calls into economically meaningful content. Additionally, the course enables you to tackle complex prediction tasks using different information sources. Finally, the course gives you relevant data analytics skills such as the description, visualisation and statistical analysis of such predictions. We will use the programming language Python to apply the above-mentioned concepts. All essential programming skills are taught in this course, and there are no prior programming skills required.
Language level of course • English: B2, C1 • English: B2, C1 • 28 July - 14 August 2025 (Registration deadline of course provider: 1 May 2025) Mode of study Less than 50% online Phase(s) of attendance in Germany (applies to the entire course) Pace of course Instructor-led (Specific due dates for lectures/assignments/exams) Information on dates, prices and mode of study • Online, 28 July - 1 August • In-class in Munich, 4 - 14 August Target group Bachelor's students and Master's students as well as young professionals and scientists with an interest in machine learning and data analytics techniques, thus enabling you to use them to your professional benefit. Adopting a user perspective, you will learn to automate simple but time-consuming tasks such as classification of analysts' conference calls into economically meaningful content. Additionally, the course enables you to tackle complex prediction tasks using different information sources. Finally, the course gives you relevant data analytics skills such as the description, visualisation and statistical analysis of such predictions. We will use the programming language Python to apply the above-mentioned concepts. All essential programming skills are taught in this course, and there are no prior programming skills	Course location	München
Date(s) • 28 July - 14 August 2025 (Registration deadline of course provider: 1 May 2025) Mode of study Less than 50% online Phase(s) of attendance in Germany (applies to the entire course) Pace of course Instructor-led (Specific due dates for lectures/assignments/exams) Information on dates, prices and mode of study • In-class in Munich, 4 - 14 August • In-class in Munich, 4 - 14 August Description/content This course aims at making you familiar with basic machine learning approaches and data analytics techniques, thus enabling you to use them to your professional benefit. Adopting a user perspective, you will learn to automate simple but time-consuming tasks such as classification of analysts' conference calls into economically meaningful content. Additionally, the course enables you to tackle complex prediction tasks using different information sources. Finally, the course gives you relevant data analytics skills such as the description, visualisation and statistical analysis of such predictions. We will use the programming language Python to apply the above-mentioned concepts. All essential programming skills are taught in this course, and there are no prior programming skills	Teaching language	• English
Mode of study Phase(s) of attendance in Germany (applies to the entire course) Pace of course Instructor-led (Specific due dates for lectures/assignments/exams) Information on dates, prices and mode of study • Online, 28 July - 1 August • In-class in Munich, 4 - 14 August Target group Bachelor's students and Master's students as well as young professionals and scientists with an interest in machine learning and data analytics Description/content This course aims at making you familiar with basic machine learning approaches and data analytics techniques, thus enabling you to use them to your professional benefit. Adopting a user perspective, you will learn to automate simple but time-consuming tasks such as classification of analysts' conference calls into economically meaningful content. Additionally, the course enables you to tackle complex prediction tasks using different information sources. Finally, the course gives you relevant data analytics skills such as the description, visualisation and statistical analysis of such predictions. We will use the programming language Python to apply the above-mentioned concepts. All essential programming skills are taught in this course, and there are no prior programming skills	Language level of course	• English: B2, C1
Phase(s) of attendance in Germany (applies to the entire course) Pace of course Instructor-led (Specific due dates for lectures/assignments/exams) Information on dates, prices and mode of study • Online, 28 July - 1 August • In-class in Munich, 4 - 14 August Target group Bachelor's students and Master's students as well as young professionals and scientists with an interest in machine learning and data analytics Pescription/content This course aims at making you familiar with basic machine learning approaches and data analytics techniques, thus enabling you to use them to your professional benefit. Adopting a user perspective, you will learn to automate simple but time-consuming tasks such as classification of analysts' conference calls into economically meaningful content. Additionally, the course enables you to tackle complex prediction tasks using different information sources. Finally, the course gives you relevant data analytics skills such as the description, visualisation and statistical analysis of such predictions. We will use the programming language Python to apply the above-mentioned concepts. All essential programming skills are taught in this course, and there are no prior programming skills	Date(s)	• 28 July - 14 August 2025 (Registration deadline of course provider: 1 May 2025)
Pace of course Instructor-led (Specific due dates for lectures/assignments/exams)	Mode of study	Less than 50% online
Information on dates, prices and mode of study • Online, 28 July - 1 August • In-class in Munich, 4 - 14 August Bachelor's students and Master's students as well as young professionals and scientists with an interest in machine learning and data analytics This course aims at making you familiar with basic machine learning approaches and data analytics techniques, thus enabling you to use them to your professional benefit. Adopting a user perspective, you will learn to automate simple but time-consuming tasks such as classification of analysts' conference calls into economically meaningful content. Additionally, the course enables you to tackle complex prediction tasks using different information sources. Finally, the course gives you relevant data analytics skills such as the description, visualisation and statistical analysis of such predictions. We will use the programming language Python to apply the above-mentioned concepts. All essential programming skills are taught in this course, and there are no prior programming skills	Germany (applies to the	Yes, compulsory
Target group Bachelor's students and Master's students as well as young professionals and scientists with an interest in machine learning and data analytics This course aims at making you familiar with basic machine learning approaches and data analytics techniques, thus enabling you to use them to your professional benefit. Adopting a user perspective, you will learn to automate simple but time-consuming tasks such as classification of analysts' conference calls into economically meaningful content. Additionally, the course enables you to tackle complex prediction tasks using different information sources. Finally, the course gives you relevant data analytics skills such as the description, visualisation and statistical analysis of such predictions. We will use the programming language Python to apply the above-mentioned concepts. All essential programming skills are taught in this course, and there are no prior programming skills	Pace of course	Instructor-led (Specific due dates for lectures/assignments/exams)
Description/content This course aims at making you familiar with basic machine learning approaches and data analytics techniques, thus enabling you to use them to your professional benefit. Adopting a user perspective, you will learn to automate simple but time-consuming tasks such as classification of analysts' conference calls into economically meaningful content. Additionally, the course enables you to tackle complex prediction tasks using different information sources. Finally, the course gives you relevant data analytics skills such as the description, visualisation and statistical analysis of such predictions. We will use the programming language Python to apply the above-mentioned concepts. All essential programming skills are taught in this course, and there are no prior programming skills techniques, thus enabling you to use them to your professional benefit. Adopting a user perspective, you will learn to automate simple but time-consuming tasks such as classification of analysts' conference calls into economically meaningful content. Additionally, the course enables you to tackle complex prediction tasks using different information sources. Finally, the course gives you relevant data analytics skills such as the description, visualisation and statistical analysis of such predictions. We will use the programming language Python to apply the above-mentioned concepts. All essential programming skills are taught in this course, and there are no prior programming skills	Target group sources. Finally, the course gives you relevant data analytics skills such as the description, visualisation and statistical analysis of such predictions. We will use the programming language Python to apply the above-mentioned concepts. All essential programming skills are taught in this course, and there are no prior programming skills	Description/content	techniques, thus enabling you to use them to your professional benefit. Adopting a user perspective, you will learn to automate simple but time-consuming tasks such as classification of sources. Finally, the course gives you relevant data analytics skills such as the description, visualisation and statistical analysis of such predictions. We will use the programming language

Course details

Recognised language exams offered (e.g. DSH, TestDaF, TOEFL)	No
Other degrees / qualifications awarded	Certificate of participation
Online learning element is part of a study programme	Yes
ECTS points (max.)	6
Average number of hours per week	20
Average number of participants per group/course	20

Costs / Funding

Dates and costs	• 28 July - 14 August 2025 (Registration deadline of course provider: 1 May 2025), costs: EUR 1,450
This price includes	 Course fees Accompanying programme
Information on dates, prices and mode of study	 Online, 28 July - 1 August In-class in Munich, 4 - 14 August

Requirements / Registration

Teaching language	• English
Language level of course	• English: B2, C1
Language requirements	Prerequisites for participation are a good command of written and spoken English. Lectures, presentations and examinations will be held in English. Even though we do not require students to submit language test results, we urge students with poor language skills to abstain from applying. Knowledge of German is not a prerequisite.
Technical equipment and programmes	Internet access Moodle as well as Zoom

Services

Is accommodation organised?	Accommodation is arranged by the organiser.
Type of accommodation	The Munich International Summer University (MISU) at the Ludwig Maximilian University of Munich (LMU) offers accommodation in student residences. 330 EUR (shared double room with bathroom on the floor) 390 EUR (shared double room with bathroom)
Meals	The canteen of the "Studierendenwerk München Oberbayern" offers meals that range from 4 to 7 EUR from Monday to Friday.
Is a social and leisure programme offered?	Yes
Description of social and leisure programme	City tour, day trips
Free internet access	Yes
Support in visa matters	Yes
Pick-up service from train station/airport	No

Contact

Ludwig-Maximilians-Universität München International Office

Geschwister-Scholl-Platz 1 80539 München

© Course website: https://www.mda-misu.de

https://www.instagram.com/misu_munich/

Last update 15.01.2025 10:22:49

International Programmes in Germany - Database

www.daad.de/international-programmes www.daad.de/sommerkurse

Editor

DAAD - Deutscher Akademischer Austauschdienst e.V. German Academic Exchange Service Section K23 – Information on Studying in Germany Kennedyallee 50 D-53175 Bonn www.daad.de

GATE-Germany

Consortium for International Higher Education Marketing www.gate-germany.de

Disclaimer

The data used for this database was collected and analysed in good faith and with due diligence. The DAAD and the Content5 AG accept no liability for the correctness of the data contained in the "International Programmes in Germany" and "Language and Short Courses in Germany".

The publication is funded by the German Federal Ministry of Education and Research and by contributions of the participating German institutions of higher education.

