| Description/content | Programme description: In the Sustainable Development Academy (SDA), participants engage with the Sustainable Development Goals of the United Nations (SDGs) in a critical and solution-oriented way. The goal of the programme is to provide participants with skills that will enable them to develop creative approaches to achieving sustainability goals at a local level. Teaching formats: The summer school aims to encourage interaction and draw insights from both, the academic and non-academic community through a variety of lectures, discussion sessions or expert talks, group work and accompanying field trips. Content: The first part of the Summer School intends to provide the basis – the theoretical knowledge and understanding – needed to engage critically with the SDGs. It focuses on developing an |

understanding of the interdependence of each of the Sustainable Development Goals, and in particular goals 13 & 15. Another focal point is on the analysis of the status quo of the implementation of the "Agenda 2030" on an international and regional level. What tools have been already established and what challenges remain?

During the entire programme, participants work independently in multidisciplinary teams on a real-life challenge. Various workshop formats and guidance from experts support the approach to this task in order to solve complex problems. Finally, the results of the study groups are presented, reflected and discussed in the plenum.

Various field trips round off the programme and give the opportunity to get to know not only the work in practice of different local institutions but also to "lend a hand" yourself. Are you ready to take action?

Current information

The well-being and safety of our participants is our highest priority.

We are regularly in contact with the university management, local and foreign authorities and partner institutions about health and security standards and monitor the situation closely. We will provide support to students with information about local health and safety services, and of course, we will arrange for assistance in case of an emergency.

Young, modern, future-oriented: Since its foundation in 1991, the University of Potsdam has achieved an outstanding position among the higher education and research institutions of the Berlin-Brandenburg metropolitan area. The University of Potsdam offers a great variety of study programmes and courses with a distinct interdisciplinary profile. Subjects such as Jewish studies, patholinguistics or IT systems engineering at the Hasso Plattner Institute are unique offerings in their form. Furthermore, the University of Potsdam has a strong focus on teacher education.

University location

With its unique cultural landscape of Prussian palaces and gardens, Potsdam is considered as one of the most beautiful cities in Germany. Surrounded by lakes, rivers, and forests, the capital of the federal state of Brandenburg is an inspiring place to live, study, and work. Potsdam and nearby Berlin offer a great variety of cultural discoveries and leisure activities. Public transport allows for convenient travel between these cities.
