Description/content	The Master of Science in Business Administration programme is designed to meet international standards and is only available to students who have successfully completed a Bachelor's degree. The programme is divided into four concentrations: accounting, finance, management, and marketing. This allows students to specialise in one area of interest. Additionally, students must choose a minor, which accounts for one-fifth of the programme. They may select a minor in the same field as their concentration or one from another field (economics, information systems, business research, entrepreneurship).

The programme offers a wide range of major and minor combinations as well as many options within each major and minor. This allows students to emphasise their specific interests and customise their studies to align with their individual abilities and needs.

The Master's programme is ideal for graduates who want to advance their skills beyond the first professional degree or pursue an academic career.

Course Details

Course organisation

The Master's programme in Business Administration is designed as a continuation of the Bachelor's degree in this field and leads to a Master of Science degree. Students can specialise in accounting, finance, management, or marketing. The courses in finance and marketing are conducted entirely in English. Graduates of the programme can pursue a doctorate or go straight into the business world.

In the programme, students choose a major subject and a minor subject. The majority of their time and effort is dedicated to the major subject, while their minor subject makes up one-fifth of the programme. The minor subject can be closely related to the major subject, such as a major and minor in accounting, finance, or marketing. However, it is not possible to choose a major and minor in management. Alternatively, the minor subject can be from a different field, such as economics, information systems, business research, or entrepreneurship.

The programme takes four semesters to complete, during which students can earn 120 credit points – 96 for their major subject and 24 for their minor subject. The 24 points awarded for the minor subjects are earned in the first two semesters. In the third semester, students take deepening modules in their emphasis area, and in the fourth semester, they spend most of their time working on their MA theses.

The courses offered in the Master's programme are research-oriented and geared towards the job market. International business leaders offer valuable insights into the practical aspects of business life. Business simulation games prepare students for future roles in international corporations or consulting firms. When commercial and academic interests coincide, students may write their MA theses with the aid of business companies. To reflect the growing trend towards internationalisation, many courses are conducted in English, often by visiting professors from renowned business schools.

During the third semester, students have the opportunity to study abroad, either for the entire semester or part of a semester, at a foreign university.

Services

Accommodation

As in all popular university cities in Germany, accommodation is in high demand and is not easy to find in Münster – but it's not impossible either!

Please contact the International Office (Bachelor's and Master's students) or the WWU Graduate Centre (doctoral candidates) for advice. Please also note that the University of Münster (like most German public universities) does not have its own student halls of residence.

Career advisory service

The Career Service team of the University of Münster provides a comprehensive range of seminars, information, and advice to help students, doctoral candidates, and graduates develop a sustainable professional profile, initiate contacts with employers, and learn application strategies and techniques.

General services and support for international students and doctoral candidates

The Student Advice and Counselling Centre (ZSB) of the University of Münster provides support for students in various areas, including:

- Assistance with learning techniques
- Workshops on learning techniques and stress management
- Psychological counselling for students dealing with personal difficulties that are affecting their studies

The Student Advice and Counselling Centre provides relevant information, assesses the individual circumstances of the student, and considers objective factors to help develop customised solutions and potential courses of action.
