How influential are the developments of the history of thought, social upheavals and technological innovations on literary expression? What interplay exists between art, music and literature? Can fiction also be seen as inspiration for social changes? And: How do the respective authors incorporate literary legacies into their own works? A valid and living impression of literary development from the classical period to the present will not only be provided through texts but also through film clips and virtual excursions. For instance, we will obtain deeper insight into the art of the Romantic period with a virtual tour through the Alte Nationalgalerie and will also get a digital impression of the Topography of Terror exhibition (documentation and visitor centre on the topic of National Socialism in German history).
